BOGUS AGENTS "SHAKE DOWN" LAKE RESORTS

Sheriff Protests Operations of Fake Officers in Lake County

Complaints made by Sheriff Doolittle to Federal officers recently started that department on an investigation into the workings of bogus "agents" in the Lake Region. It was stated by Sheriff Doolittle's office that several places in the county had been entered by men who styled themselves "Federal prohibition officers" and collected sums of money ranging from $200 to $600 on the grounds that the owner of the establishment must either "pay up" or "take a ride."

That this was not the first time that such activities had come to the attention of the federal department was freely admitted. Bogus agents are being held in a county not far distant according to statements of U. S. officers and now face trial for shakedowns of this nature.

It was pointed out by authorities that federal agents may make arrests but under no conditions may they impose or collect fines unless there is anything in the Illinois statutes authorizing county officials to impose or collect fines under like circumstances.

"Trespassing" Not Popular
It has been suggested that force of habit acquired in many previous experiences led resort owners in the region to be easy prey to this form of swindle and that greater care should have been exercised on the part of the victims to see that the shake down artists were armed with the "proper credentials." It has been hinted that this report of "trespassing" by bogus federal agents did not prove to be very popular at Waukegan.

MID-SUMMER FESTIVAL SCHEDULED FOR SEPT.

American Legion Sponsors Big
Meet With V. President Dawes
as Their Guest

The American Legion at Waukegan are preparing for the 3rd annual Summer Festival and from all indications it will be a tremendous success. It will be opened on Friday, September 2, at 6:00 p. m., Daylight Saving Time, with a huge parade. The guests of honor will be Vice-President Charles G. Dawes, Senator Deneen and Congressman Chidlbloom and Britton.

The parade will be composed of a troop of Cavalry from Fort Sheridan, mounted trumpeters, massed colors and standards of all the Legion Posts in Lake County, six bands, and over one hundred decorated floats, the estimated cost of which will be $20,000. In addition the contestants of the Bathing Beauty Contest will appear in a specially decorated float. There will be at least ten cities in northern Illinois represented by a bathing girl in this contest. Any town in northern Illinois has the privilege of sending a representative.

There will be parachute jumps, power boat races, a doll buggy contest, also high and fancy diving by the Women's Athletic Club of Chicago and numerous other interesting and amusing attractions.

The Festival is to be held on the beach at the foot of Madison street in Waukegan. All attractions are free. The North Shore Railroad Company, will furnish extra transportation over its lines during the Festival.

Several towns in Lake County are entering girls in the Bathing Beauty Contest and several are entering floats in the parade advertising their towns. It is estimated that at least 50,000 people will review the parade.

First Honors of Season Won by Allendale Herd

Allendale Oxford Down sheep made another clean sweep last week at the North Dakota state fair. They won 8 firsts, and the prize for championship ewe, first flock and first prize pen of lambs.

WADSWORTH FARMER FINDS HOSPITALITY IS ILL-REQUITED

Both Boy and Studebaker Car are Missing in The Morning

Mike Shelly of Wadsworth will probably not prove so generous when the next "Knight of the Road" craves the privilege of sleeping in his barn. Sunday night a youth who claimed to hail from Oshkosh asked permission to occupy his hayloft over night and the request was granted. Arising the next morning Shelly discovered that the visitor was gone as was also his Studebaker touring car.

The thief was described as being tall and of slight build, about twenty-one years of age, and clad in a light hat and a dark blue suit of clothes.

Shoe Company Manager Tenders Resignation

Mr. J. Wilson McGee, manager of the Chicago Footwear company's Antioch store, has tendered his resignation to take effect August 15, it was learned Monday.

Coming here from Chicago nearly seven years ago, Mr. McGee took over the management of the local store with a very broad experience in the shoe business behind him. For ten years he was employed by the Smith-Wallace company, shoe manufacturers and jobbers, and later acquired considerable experience in retailing while with Marshall Field and Co., in Chicago. That he has been very successful in the management of the Chicago Footwear Company's local store is without question.

While Mr. McGee has not announced his plans for the future, it is understood by friends here that he has a number of very promising prospects in view that may bring him the success he deserves.

Six Bathing Beauties Sign Up For Contest

The American Legion are busy drafting the final plans for the big summer festival and beauty contest to be held August 19th, 20th, and 21st. The committee on beauty entrants report that six young ladies from Antioch and vicinity have already signified their intention of competing and that they have every reason to expect that there will be many more candidates before the contest opens.

Cement Pouring Is Already Begun On
Depot St. Paving

Paving operations on Depot street, begun last week by the firm of Darrow and Barron immediately after they were awarded the contract by the village board, have been expedited and the work of pouring cement on the west portion was begun yesterday. It is expected that the paving of that section will be completed in 10 days.

Second Annual Field Day of Channel Lake C. C. to be Gala Event

Plans for the big Field Day and picnic which is to be tendered to the public by the members of the Channel Lake Country Club next Saturday are nearing completion. A full schedule of events has been arranged and prizes have been contributed by the merchants of the village and vicinity so that the winners of every contest will be well rewarded for their efforts.

Two teams of baseball captained by Gray Phelps and Chuck Thomas will play this year for the temporary ownership of the loving cup.

Last year 300 people attended the Field day and from all indications this year's crowd will double the number. There will be no golf from 3:00 o'clock to enable all to take part in the contests.

Following the Field Day there will be a dinner dance at the club for all those who wish to attend.

The following are the contributors of the prizes for the day: Charles Zankee, Ernst Hege, Carol Venn, Harry Arms, C. K. Anderson, Corona Pen Company, H. R. Adams Co., Antioch Lumber and Coal Co., Antioch Milling Co., Main Garage, Hillebrand and Shults, Antioch Motor Sales, Edward Dressel, John Morley, Quality Market, King's Drug Store, M. E. Sabin, Williams Bros., Nixon Candy Shop, Chas. Lux, Reeves Drug Store, State Bank, Antioch Oil Co., First National Bank, Dr. Wariner, Mrs. Rose Chin, Tackles Fruit Market, Chas. Powles and Son, R. C. Abt, Somerville's Bakery, Otto Klass, A. Schaefer, Webb's Racket Store, Wisconsin Butter Store, Wm. Keulman, Walance Clothing Store, Sabin's Thrift Shop, M. Zimmerman, Van's Barber Shop, Chase Wehl, Weizel Chevrolet Co., Chicago Footwear Co., Antioch Fruit Co., Reichmann's Bakery, The Antioch News.

VILLAGE FINANCES IN SOUND CONDITION, AUDIT DISCLOSES

Simms Gives Favorable Report After Check on Accounts

Antioch is in far better condition financially than the great majority of Illinois cities, according to the report of S. E. Simms, expert public accountant of Pontiac, who completed the job of auditing the books of Antioch the first of the week.

Auditor Simms started his check-up with the figures of ten years ago, far enough back to take in all special assessments at the beginning of the improvement era.

Engineers Estimate Low

Special assessment No. 6 (sewer) was found to be the only transaction that bailed up the works during the ten year period. This bond issue, while in accord with the engineer's estimate, fell short of the actual cost of the sewer installation by about $500.00. This fact, and the matter of uncollected interest on the indebtedness has caused a deficit of about $1500, for which ways and means for payment must be provided.

Chairman H. J. Vos and other members of the finance committee, who sponsored the audit, are well pleased to be assured that the village finances are O. K. "Of course the village has outstanding indebtedness, but it is a trifling matter and nothing to get excited about," Chairman Vos said yesterday while discussing village affairs with friends, explaining that the most important thing was the fact that Antioch was getting things done and rapidly forging to the front as the most progressive little city in the state.

Library Fund Falls Short of Requirements

The annual tax day for the public library held last Saturday by the Antioch Woman's club netted that organization $6.00. According to committee chairman, Mrs. Oliver Mathews, this sum is insufficient to maintain even the limited library service that the funds received in previous years thus far provided, stalled two new pumps.

SMITH REPORTS MISSING $100,000 IS NOW RESTORED

County to Furnish Surety Bond for Treasurer in the Future

That the $100,000 lost to the treasury of Lake county by Treasurer Roy Bracher had been returned thereto by him was the report of State's Attorney A. V. Smith this week. Smith stated, however, that the fact that the money has been paid back will have no effect on the criminal prosecution of Bracher, Pearsall, Nye, Baile and Martin on indictments made by the grand jury last week.

Bracher handed his resignation to R. C. Thomas, chairman of the board of county commissioners some days ago, and has since secured the necessary funds to make up the $100,000 shortage from his friends, among whom were numbered many of his bondsmen. The contributions were secured by his property particularly his extensive realty holdings in the Diamond Lake Subdivision.

The meeting of the board is scheduled for today, and it was admitted by members that Jay H. Morse, chief deputy in the office of County Clerk Lew A. Hendee, would be appointed. The chairman of the finance committee, Arthur W. Vercoe, stated that the board would not expect the treasurer to obtain the signatures of his friends to a bond but would furnish a surety bond at county expense.

Bracher retains his official position as treasurer until the appointment of Morse which will take effect at once, is made. Immediately following the change, audit will be made of the county finances. It has been claimed that, in addition to the $100,000 shortage, a sum of money ranging from $6000 to $33,000 was due the county on back interest money which had not been turned over during the administration of Bracher and Pearsall. It is anticipated that the audit will provide some information as to this claim.

Ladies of St. Ignatius' Present Summer Fair

The ladies of St. Ignatius' Episcopal church are to hold their annual midsummer bazaar and supper at the Parish Hall on next Wednesday afternoon. They have been at work for several months past on the fancy work and handcraft work which is to be offered for sale and will present a lavish display of such articles.

The guild plans to serve supper in connection with the bazaar and will also serve ice cream and pop. Booths for the amusement of the crowds will include a fish pond and a post office.

Motorists Hasten to Fill Tanks Before 2c Tax Goes Into Effect

A full tank of gas was the aim of every motorist in the region last Sunday night when the grand rush to fill up before the 2 cent gasoline tax went into effect began. Motorists doped it out that one more gallon of gasoline could be obtained Sunday than could be purchased for the same amount of money on Monday and were not slow to avail themselves of the opportunity.

All existing supplies of the fuel in the hands of wholesale agencies in the community were exhausted long before the zero hour struck, and retailers in turn found themselves starting the week Monday with an unusually small supply of the fluid and a correspondingly decreased demand.

and other activities will have to be inaugurated by the club to make up the deficit. A budget of $150 is the minimum with which the work can be carried on.

The Antioch Motor Sales company are redecorating the interior of their store room this week and installing a car washing machine.

Chicago Man Loses Life In Diving From Springboard

Slipping as he started to dive from a springboard at Channel Lake Sunday, Charles P. Bauer, aged 30, of 4408 North Ashland Avenue, Chicago, struck the springboard and suffered an injury to his spine that resulted in his death.

After the accident, Bauer was rushed to Chicago for treatment. It was not thought at the time that the fall would prove serious but he failed to rally and death resulted Monday.

YOUTH DROWNS IN LOON LAKE AFTER DIVE FROM BOAT

Frantic Efforts of Brother Fail—Firemen Recover Boy's Body

Children Lindstrand, 19, of 9404 Vernon Avenue, Chicago, dived to his death at Loon Lake Sunday afternoon when he jumped from the rowboat in which he was riding into thirty feet of water.

Lindstrand and his brother were rowing about the lake. Neither of the two was more than an indifferent fair swimmer. When Lindstrand dived and failed to rise immediately to the surface the brother became alarmed and threw overboard two inflated inner tubes in the hope that the other might come up and be able to reach one of them. When the swimmer failed to do so the brother spread the alarm at once.

The Antioch Fire department were called to the scene of the accident and L. Kraft and Andrew Cobb recovered the body after dragging the lake for four hours. It was believed that weeds in the bottom of the lake hampered the swimmer in his efforts to come to the surface after diving.

The body of Lindstrand was brought to the Strang undertaking rooms in Antioch and, at an inquest held Monday under the direction of Coroner J. L. Taylor, the jury returned a finding of accidental drowning. The parents of the boy, Mr. and Mrs. Axel Lindstrand, were summoned at once and took the remains to Chicago Monday for burial.

WAUKEGAN WANTS DEMPSEY-TUNNEY TRAINING CAMPS

Rickard Favors Lake Shore City as Training Site for Maulers

Waukegan business men, led by W. Thomas Buckley of the Buckley Hills subdivision just north of the city and by officials of the North Shore line, are making an effort this week to persuade one or both of the participants in the Tunney-Dempsey fight to train there.

After a conference Tex Rickard, promoter of the fight to be held at Soldier's Field this fall, was reported to have given encouragement and stated that he would recommend Waukegan to both of the contestants.

It is understood that a choice of training quarters must be made by August 15th. Many of the organizations in and around Waukegan have extended invitations to the fighters and it is understood that several other locations in the Lakes Region have been offered. The statement made by Rickard that the training camp would undoubtedly be established in Illinois gave new impetus to the movement.

License to Marry Is Given to 502 Couples

While the number of people who took the plunge into the sea of matrimony was 95 less during July than in June, the past month has considered a good one by county authorities. License to marry was issued to 502 couples by Deputy Stanczak, who as deputy in the county clerk's office has the bureau in charge.

COMPLETION OF ROAD GAP URGED BY BUSINESS CLUB

Supreme Court Is Inactive In Lake Villa Paving Problem

That the Antioch Business club, interested citizens of Lake Villa and county officials will cooperate to secure the paving of the road gap of 3600 feet over the Soo Line tracks at Lake Villa, was learned at a meeting of Business club members at the Hastings Lake Y. M. C. A. camp Monday evening.

The proposed overhead crossing is opposed by many Lake Villa property owners, and the Soo officials have remained obstinate in the matter since the construction of Route 21 nearly six years ago. Two years ago the matter was taken to the supreme court of Illinois for a final decision but, for some unknown reason, the higher court has failed to hand down a ruling in the matter, it appearing that the "mill of justice" grinds exceeding slow and not too fine in Illinois.

Chas. R. Thorn, Lake Villa property owner, brought to the attention of the Business club the deplorable condition of the pavement gap in that village and pointed out the urgent necessity of taking immediate steps to make some kind of improvement to promote safety. Blinding dust and extreme roughness for weeks has made traveling slow and dangerous. The road has been graded and repaired many times during the summer only to be pounded out in a few days by the heavy traffic.

Immediate Action Urged

"The road is to be paved eventually, so why not now?" say those who are interested and know that pavement is the only kind of road surface that will stand up under the heavy traffic demands of Route 21.

FUNERAL OF WILMOT BOY HELD SATURDAY

Employee of Wisconsin Gas and Electric Co. Dies as Result of Accident

Funeral services were held at the Wilmot Lutheran church last Saturday for Lee Holldorf, who lost his life recently while at work for the Wisconsin Gas and Electric Co. The obsequies were conducted by Rev. Jedeole of Wilmot.

Lee George Harold Holldorf was born on June 28, 1905. He attended the public school at Wilmot and was later employed at different farms in the community. Previous to working for the Wisconsin Gas and Electric Company he was an employee of the Carey Electric and Milling Company.

There survive the deceased, two brothers, Louis and Floyd; two sisters, Ruth and Sophie; also his mother and step-father. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Holldorf and daughters from Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holldorf of Algoma, and Walter and Wm. Holldorf of Janesville, were among the people from a distance present at the funeral.

HAPPENINGS IN NEARBY TOWNS

Shaves in Waukegan will skyrocket to 35c on September 1, if the declaration reached as a compromise between master barbers and the journeymen holds. The price increase was conceded to avert a threatened strike. The journeymen also demanded a raise on haircuts from 60c to 65c but agreed to compromise on shaves only.

The McHenry Country Club opened the second nine of their eighteen hole golf course last week.

Rumors afloat that Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, is to choose Lake Geneva as his training place in preparation for the forthcoming Dempsey-Tunney fight were given some credence among sportsmen this week.

The Oliver Typewriting Company at Woodstock held an auction sale last Wednesday and sold off all of their office and factory equipment with the exception of the special typewriter machinery. This marks the closing out of the business.

It was reported last week that the Lake County Farm Bureau was seeking a new location for its offices, due to the fact that the price asked for the renewal of the lease on the property now occupied by the farm bureau was prohibitive. Grayslake has been mentioned as one of the possibilities.

Another one of the officers of the city of Zion has come under the displeasure of the Overseer, Wilbur Glenn Vollva, and has severed his connection with the police force, whether by his own choice or that of the overseer not being definitely known.

A dog farm with kennels for the rearing of the finest of Pekinese, Bostons, Chows and other breeds will be established at Crystal Lake in the near future if the plans of H. Hoffert, president of the Capital Pet Shops, Inc., of Chicago, materialize. The location for the kennels will be Woodstock street on Route 19.

The Fox River valley, the haunt of the most enterprising of the tribes of red men who roamed the lake region before the advent of the pale face, is to give up some of its secrets this summer. An expedition of professors, instructors and graduate students are spending a month exploring the region for Indian mounds, relics, trails, lore and the like and will use the results of their discoveries in a book on Illinois Indian History to be compiled under the auspices of the university.

Objections filed in the Cook County Court by opponents of the measure appeared for a time to have put a stop to the Barrington street paving program last week. It was anticipated that the objectors could be persuaded to remove their objections and that the paving of the streets could be begun this fall.

John Anthony, 59, of Marengo was fatally burned last week when he attempted to light the fire with coal oil. The fire followed the stream of oil and the can exploded throwing flames all over him.

A new fur farm is being established near Woodstock. 200 pens will be built at once. Of the total 60 acres purchased for the farm 40 will be used for enclosures. The company under whose control the enterprise will be run already possesses 63 farms scattered over the United States, with head offices in Denver, Colorado.

Sunday, August 21, has been set aside as North Chicago Day and will be celebrated with elaborate and fitting ceremonies. The celebration is sponsored by the American Legion and the Business Men's Association.

Last Friday, when one of the men driving a large truck for the cement contractor on the Millburn road was returning to the village with his empty truck, two cars coming from the Deep Lake road came so close that, to avoid hitting them, the driver took to the ditch. The truck, which overturned, pinned him in the cab. He was taken to the hospital, where his injuries were cared for.

Mrs. George Mitchell and Mrs. Edgar Kerr returned to the city on Monday after spending the past week with the Kerr family here, and with friends in Whitewater, Wis.

Mrs. John Meyer returned Saturday from the Victory Memorial hospital and is recovering nicely from her recent operation.

Wm. Walker, who came home last week from the hospital where he was being treated for blood-poisoning, is improving slowly, though he is not as yet able to be about much.

Mr. and Mrs. James Atwell entertained Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Glessner of Maywood, over the weekend. On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Olcott of Waukegan and Will Atwell of Racine were also guests at the Atwell home.

George Helm and son, Clyde, enjoyed a fishing trip in Wisconsin last week.

Miss Anna Nader spent the past three weeks visiting relatives in Kenosha.

Waukegan visitors on Monday from our village included Mrs. Hooper and Mrs. Paul Avery.

Some real estate deals of importance were made last week, according to good authority. The Miller store in the Atwell subdivision was sold to a man who also owns property at Gagen Lake, for a consideration of $6,000. L. Faber has sold his house on the corner at Cedar avenue but will not give possession for some time. The store building, known as the old Murie store, has beware the splintery floor

Think of your wood floors—your kitchen floors—the stairs that lead to the cellar or basement—the other under-foot surfaces that need attention.

Why not beautify them? Why not cover them with a good, durable coat of Acme Quality Granite Floor Enamel? It does more than beautify. It armor-coats the floor. It prevents wear and tear—does away with the scuffing up of splinters which help to harbor dirt and not only make more scrubbing necessary, but all scrubbing difficult.

Derby and Fox Trot
Contests Amuse Guests
At Antioch Palace

The second big Derby was held at the Antioch Palace last Wednesday. Of the eight who started in the race, Phil Anderson and his partner won first place, Mr. and Mrs. Dupre, second, and George Cermak and his partner third. The race was four times around the track.

Thursday evening a Fox Trot contest was the evening's feature. Nine couples entered, among them some of the very best dancers in this part of the country. The judging was by popular applause and each of the couples contesting had a lot of enthusiastic supporters among the rooters.

The three judges chosen, after listening closely to the applause, awarded the honors to Bill Anderson and Hilma Rosing. Each of the winners was presented with a beautiful silver loving cup.

Last evening the farmers and the farmerettes assembled at ten thirty for the grand costume march and the judges selected from the parades the best farmer, best farmerette, most comical costume and the most original one. F. E. Tollar of Hartford, Michigan, James E. Williams of Chicago and Elmer Wolfe of Lake Villa, acting as judges, selected as the best farmer Silar Corntassel (Mrs. F. E. Mongan,) best farmerette, Martha Meier, and made the award for the most comical costume, Maud Corntassel (Gladys Davis) and the most original costume, Roberta Lewis. Each of the winners was presented with a Coronet fountain pen.

ANTIOCH NOSES OUT WAUKEGAN TEAM

Heavy Slugging on Both Sides Feature Well Fought Game Last Sunday

The Antioch Baseball team kept its winning streak intact Sunday by defeating the strong Waukegan Cardinals 11-10. The win kept Antioch in third place and with a slight chance for the championship of the league if the two leaders falter in the stretch. The game was well played and highly interesting to a fair crowd.

Waukegan started off with a run in the first inning but Antioch forged ahead in the second when they knocked Dunham out of the box and scored 6 runs. Singles by Sullivan, W. Steininger, Urdangen, A. Steininger and Lasco, triples by Hardin and Simpson and Morley's sacrifice did the damage. Woodward relieved Dunham after Simpson's three bagger and pitched well until the eighth when Antioch sewed up the game by scoring 4 times. Singles by Sullivan, Morley and Urdanger and doubles by W. Steininger and Lasco accounted for the runs.

W. Steininger pitched great ball for the first six innings but the visitors scored twice in the seventh on a walk and 2 hits. When Gillett opened the eighth with a triple and scored on a single by Gelling, Steininger was removed and Morley went in to pitch but "Big Jack" wasn't right and after 4 batters had connected safely making the score 11-10 Manager Lasco put Steininger back in and he came through by striking out two and in cooperation with Morley, worked the "hidden ball" trick on Babcox and caught him off second. The Waukegan boys threatened again in the ninth when Wall led off with a single but Lasco, the locals centerfielder, made a great catch of Gillett's hard hit drive and saved the game for Antioch. After this Gelling walked but W. Steininger threw out G. Graham and Morley got E. Graham's fast grounder and heaved him out at first to end an exciting game.

Gillett led the hitting for the visitors with four hits while W. Steininger was Antioch's best with 3 hits and a walk. His batting has been sensational the last two games, going to the plate 11 times and cracking out 9 clean hits and 1 walk scoring 7 runs. This hitting spree has lifted the young pitcher-infielder star into the charmed "300" circle of the local hitting averages. Urdangen's fielding featured at second.

Next Sunday Antioch will play the Conover Boosters of Waukegan, the holders of second place in the league, who have only 2 defeats chalked against them this year. They defeated Antioch by an 8-7 score earlier in the season and the locals are out to avenge the loss. A victory over this strong team will still keep them in the running for the championship of Lake county and the trip to Detroit. The National Amateur Federation will hold its annual tournament Sept. 9, 10, 11 and 12, with the champion team of Lake county as one of its participants. This will be a fine trip and a fitting honor to the boys as a reward for their efforts.

STATE CAPITAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Greyhound racing, a sport decidedly popular in metropolitan centers, will get its first tryout before a state fair crowd this year. Races will be held every afternoon and evening August 22-26.

Dr. H. H. Tuttle, head of the city health department, warns vacationists of the danger of typhoid fever infection through the drinking of polluted water while touring. Take city water with you or boil water taken from unknown sources, he advises.

The board of review has taken no action on the County Farm Bureau's request for 25 per cent reduction of the assessed value of farm land in Sangamon county.

Friday, August 26, will be Farm Bureau day at the Illinois state fair. Members will be welcomed by the Illinois Agricultural association which will have headquarters on the grounds.

"Illini" is to be the trade name of Southern Illinois fruit and it will signify that the product has passed severe tests on the part of the grower, state and federal government. "Illini Brand" is the choice of the Fruit Growers' exchange of Little Egypt as the name of their first grade fruit.

The division of animal industry, Illinois Department of Agriculture, found that tests for tubercular cattle during June revealed infection reduced to 2.2% of the number tested—60,925 head—about an average month's accomplishment. Seventy-one counties were operating under the area plan. This brings the total number of cattle under supervision up to 1,088,262. Reactors slaughtered during the month totaled 1,316. Avian tuberculosis eradication tests, ending June 30, permitting accreditation of 58 flocks in ten counties. Extent of infection varies. Crawford county, with 1,336 tested, shows only 2.3% reaction.

All contracts incident to the extensive construction program in progress on the state fair grounds have been drawn with strong penalty clauses as to the time limits, and the work is progressing satisfactorily. The grandstand is rapidly nearing completion, and the new race track is receiving the finishing touches. Exhibition space on Machinery Field is all sold. In all the buildings, space is becoming decidedly scarce. Concession space has been allotted, and requests are refused for lack of space.

Food condemned as unfit for human consumption and destroyed by division of food and dairies, Illinois Department of Agriculture, totaled 70,145 pounds in June. Inspections made numbered 8,511 and samples collected 661. Of these, 221 were pronounced illegal after laboratory test. Inspectors checked 146 cream buying stations, and found 23 operating illegally. To detect unsanitary conditions in places where food is produced or distributed, inspections produced or distributed, inspections were made in 6,355 places during the month. From the Springfield laboratory, analysis is reported on 211 samples, including 99 of stock feeds and flour, 22 of fertilizers.

In the poultry pavilion at the state fair eggs from all parts of Illinois will compete for liberal cash prizes. Entries will be scored as to condition, quality and appearance. Other fairs scattered over Illinois, have arranged for this feature, in conjunction with an egg-grade demonstration that the state department of agriculture presents as a means of encouraging better quality in egg production. The fairs which are to have this demonstration are: Menard county, at Petersburg; Fulton county, at Lewistown; Interstate at Kankakee; Henry county, at Cambridge; Adams county, at Quincy; Perry county, DuQuoin; King City fair at Mt. Vernon; Jefferson county.

Farm relief became such a dominant issue at the annual governor's conference at Mackinac Island that it is expected to be one of the most forceful political problems in the 1928 presidential campaign. The governors of twenty-four states met for discussion of their various problems and were stirred by a speech of Governor John Hammill, Iowa, pleading for the McNary-Haugen bill. Governor Len Small attended the conference.

The Illinois Department of Agriculture, division of apiculture inspection, examined 17,236 colonies of bees for foul brood during the month of June. Infection was found in 238 apiaries and 145 colonies were remedied or destroyed. The remainder are receiving attention. At Strausburg this division presented a demonstration showing how to eliminate the foul brood plague.

The Virginia gap on the Springfield-Bardstown hard road is now open to traffic.

The Sangamon County Farm Bureau advises all farmers to keep a record of the gasoline they use in tractors, gas engines, and for cleaning purposes. This fuel is exempt from the new gas tax, providing the purchaser keeps a record on form provided by the State. The record, together with an affidavit, should be sent to the state department of finance, at Springfield, within six months from the date of purchase of the fuel. Anyone who wilfully turns in a false report will be prosecuted for perjury. The tax for Sangamon county farmers will be levied at the Sangamon Farmers' Oil company central distributing station.

Bids have been received by the state department of public works for the construction of a length of hard road in Menard county which would connect Petersburg with Tällula and a stretch in Macoupin county which extends on Route 112 from Bunker Hill.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—From the comfortable financial situation to which he had been born, Peter Millman, American gentleman of the old school, and last of his family, is practically reduced to poverty through misfortune of friend Hassen Brewer, whom he had unwisely trusted.

CHAPTER II.—Learning of Brewers suicide, which means the destruction of his last hope, Millman engages a French butler, Achille Lutry, who speaks no English, but is a likeable, pleasant man of long standing. By Lutry, Millman sends letters to Prof. Fleming Bradney, Floyd Malet and Neeland Barnes, men whom the world has classed as failures, once of high position. In response, the three call on him at his home.

CHAPTER III

Neeland Barnes disapproved of Achille, who admitted him with lavish gestures. This was not the sort of butler a Millman should employ. He followed him to a library, where he found his host speaking to Floyd Malet. It was as Barnes thought. Sculptors were not quite up to his social standard. This stranger was physically inconspicuous, and his clothes should have been more recently pressed.

Neeland Barnes held out his hand to Peter Millman, as one could to a man of his distinguished ancestry, with a smile which said plainly, "I, at least, belong here."

"It is very kind of you to come," said Peter Millman. He turned to Floyd Malet: "Mr. Malet, this is Mr. Neeland Barnes."

Barnes nodded a little coldly. Curious, he thought, that Peter Millman should have introduced Malet to him.

Then Fleming Bradney came in. Although his clothes were of another era, there was an air of power about him. His was a carelessness due less to ignorance than to lack of concern with other people's modes of life and thought. In an age when beards were unpopular he wore one, and little children kissed "Beaver" to him at every street corner.

Peter Millman, so Barnes thought, treated him with extreme respect. It was not until Achille brought in the cocktails that Barnes' frown left him. It was easy to see that of the three Peter Millman considered him the least important. Why, he wondered, did Millman esteem it an honor to have a physicist to dinner? The word recurred many times. This must be some new way of describing a physician. That was it. Physicians were not so bad. One had married a Vanderbilt in America and another a duke of Norfolk's daughter in England. The second cocktail round Neeland Barnes more amiable. He looked keenly at his host, but discovered no trace of nervousness about him, no wildness of eye which might confirm the world's opinion that he was mentally unfit. Perfectly dressed, as usual, but no better turned-out than Neeland Barnes.

The dining room was beautifully furnished.

"Ha, ha," said Barnes, "good old Chippendale."

"Sheraton," the sculptor corrected gently.

"Just as you like," Barnes said gently. There were certain bottles in plain view which banished any ill-humor he might have felt. Not for years had he sat down to a really well-chosen and well-cooked dinner. Everything about him spoke of lavish expenditures. To Floyd Malet everything spoke of exquisite taste. The relief, after years of furnished dissonance, was grateful. He felt cheerful after a decade of gloom.

By Degrees Bradney Found Himself Listening to Barnes' Anecdotes.

less critical attitude. Barnes had humor. A handsome man, Bradney decided, courageous, popular with men and women alike and not burdened with sufficient mental power to enable him to feel he had a mission in life. He lived, no doubt, as his wealthy class does, simply for the moment.

In truth, Neeland Barnes had forgotten Lipsky entirely. The dinner was excellent. A fellow-countryman of Achille's had seen to that. The wines were superb. Barnes adopted an air of exquisite but lofty courtesy toward his fellow-guests. They said very little, but their table manners were reassuring. When the dinner should be finished, Barnes determined to lean back in his chair, survey Millman with a smile that had world knowledge and kindly cynicism in it and demand to know for what reason he was brought from Peekskill retirement. As one old New Yorker to another, Peter Millman would give his reasons.

"That's a very fine oil-painting over your head, Mr. Millman," said Floyd Malet, disturbing the train of Barnes' fancies.

"A relative of mine," Millman answered, "Capt. Oliver Millman. That was painted in Holland when he was a young soldier in England's wars with France. It is by Jordens, the brilliant fellow-student of Rubens. He joined his brother in Plymouth county, Massachusetts, just after that picture was painted. Later he fought in King Philip's war. He was killed fighting for England against France in Pennsylvania. Historians know it as King William's war." His brother disowned him for his godless ways of life. In revenge Captain Oliver bequeathed him his entire fortune, which rescued the stern and righteous brother from beggary. But for Oliver Millman we might have become obscure farmers on Cape Cod. What the Millmans had, they owe to him."

Neeland Barnes launched into a bitter invective against righteous relatives.

"Take it from one who knows," he concluded, "it is the black sheep who'll do a man a good turn when he needs it. I've found that my righteous relatives always gave me good advice and the shadier sort slipped me the coin."

"Some day a great lawlessness will sweep over the world," Malet declared. "I don't mean as a concerted action on the part of any Socialist or Syndicalist, but an expression of human unrest. We have been led down too long. We have endured too much the oppressions of those in authority."

"We'll stampede, you mean?" said Barnes. "I'll be there."

"Do you think," Peter Millman asked, "that there is any justification for the human herd stampeding because it is dissatisfied with its masters?"

"Certainly," Floyd Malet said. "Sometimes it is just to take the law in one's hands."

"The law," scoffed Bradney, recalling certain earlier passages of his life.

"The law. Now I'm a typical law-abiding citizen, but I cannot regard any man-made statutes as sacrosanct. What is law? A rule of civic conduct prescribed by the supreme power and prohibiting what is wrong. That's Blackstone's definition."

Neeland Barnes looked instinctively over the table to his host. It was his experience that all rich men supported those laws which kept the masses in order. In his own days of wealth he had done the same. But there was no frown on Peter Millman's face.

"This is a discussion which interests me more than you can imagine," said Peter Millman. His guests noticed that he turned his head and glanced swiftly at Captain Oliver. "I usually have coffee and liqueurs served in the garden." He rose. "Think you may prefer it there."

"A garden?" Floyd Malet cried. "A garden in Lower Fifth Avenue?"

"You shall see," said Millman.

They followed their host through library and corridor to what seemed a blank wall. A door, cleverly concealed by moldings, swung open. Not for twenty years had strangers been offered the chance to gaze upon Peter Millman's garden.

"This is Japan," Malet exclaimed. "I have seen this in Nagasaki."

"I modeled it on a part of the gardens in 'The Teahouse of the Indescribable Butterflies' in Nagasaki, with a suggestion, here and there, from the Fuknawa garden."

Neeland Barnes knew nothing about Japanese gardens, but the thing took his fancy amazingly. Quaint bridges, little streams with brilliant goldfish, garden-lanterns, strangely set stones, made this back yard of seventy feet long by half as much wide the most entrancing garden he had seen on this Avenue where he, too, had been born.

At the other end of it was a sort of platform on which comfortable seats were arranged. Immediately below it was a lily-pool. Twenty feet above was a framework of steel mesh to which mosquito netting was attached.

"This is exquisite," Malet murmured. "No wonder you do not move. Your taste seems to me to be perfect. I have never been in a more harmonious and beautifully furnished house."

While Achille was bringing coffee and liqueurs, Millman explained how, by the use of glass where now was netting, he could regulate the temperature and keep his garden beautiful when snowstorms raged and frost bit violently.

It was when Achille had gone that Neeland Barnes found himself sighing. He had abandoned the idea of his man-of-the-world questioning of his host. He was content that this pleasant atmosphere remain unchanged. He did not want to think of going back to Lipsky and the rent question. The wine and the green Chartreuse induced a pleasant lassitude. Neeland Barnes stretched his long legs and felt at peace.

"You have been very patient, gentlemen," Millman began, "in not asking me ere this for what reason I invited you. And you have been very courteous to come when my letter might have been construed in an offensive light." Neeland Barnes permitted himself to smile at being insulted by a gift of a hundred dollars. "I have never met any of you personally before, although I have heard Mr. Bradney lecture and have seen some of Mr. Malet's work. I also was thrilled many years ago by Mr. Barnes' horsemanship."

"Very handsome of you to say so," said Neeland Barnes. "I flatter myself I could ride in those days."

"What I am going to say may seem nothing whatever to do with me at first. It may even be that you will consider me guilty of some breach of good form when I mention certain matters in the past life of all three of you. If so, I beg you to believe I shall say nothing idle. I have a definite plan in asking you to meet, and I must tell my story to my own way."

Peter Millman looked from one to the other of them a little anxiously. He was meticulous in matters of personal conduct, and he feared he might be exceeding his rights.

"So far as I am concerned," said Fleming Bradney, "you have nothing to fear. I have done nothing to be ashamed of, although I cannot expect the world to believe that."

"My reputation," said Malet, "is a trifle besmirched, but I have long since ceased applying whitewash. Juvalen says that to be poor is to be ridiculous. Well, Mr. Millman, I can plead guilty to that count."

Peter Millman turned courteously to the third guest.

"Don't mind me," said Barnes gently. "I am used to it. If you had had all the d—n silly relations I've had, you'd have no sensitive spots left. I have been worthless since birth." He chuckled. "But I've had a d—n good run for my money, even if this Juvalen person has my number up and the race lost. Rub it in, if it helps you. My wool is black, and I know it."

"I'm afraid you don't exactly understand," Peter Millman smiled. "I am neither schoolmaster nor reproving relative. I merely wish to ask your pardon if I talk of things in my lives that may stir up unhappy memories."

Floyd Bradney thought of his lonely room, his uncongenial work, and looked about him and sighed. He liked this unknown Peter Millman, with his charming manner and a dignity that had something forgotten and Victorian about it. He had not given Malet what he had promised, and the disappointment had embittered him; but there was nothing disgraceful in what had brought him low.

"Go ahead, Mr. Millman," he said.

"You can talk for days if you like."

"Let me begin with Mr. Fleming Bradney," said Millman. "I have said I once heard him lecture. It was because I read an article of his in the North American Review on radioactivity. What I read and afterward heard him say stirred up my imagination powerfully, and I understood that a man may have a passion for knowledge which is a burning hunger."

Fleming Bradney nodded his head "Yes," he commented, "that's a good description of it. It is a passion that recognizes no limits of time or labor expended. It is a passion that has knowledge as its goal and not fame or money. Yes, I had it once."

"The circumstances which led Mr. Bradney to give up his life-work and drop out of his world have never been told in their entirety," Peter Millman said, after a pause. "I am going to tell you now. I may say that up to the moment of his retirement we have never had a physicist who gave such promise as he. It is to the honor of a great university in this state that he was elected professor of etheric physics and asked to erect the most superb laboratory for his work that could be built. It was to exceed in equipment that of Cambridge university. He was allowed to design it. I think such a chance has rarely been given to one so young."

Bradney nodded his head. "It was the greatest opportunity ever offered a man."

"And he lost it," Millman's quiet, precise voice went on. "He lost it, and with it the chance of making a career of supreme service to mankind. I wonder if Mr. Bradney would mind telling us how."

"It is all so confused and hard to understand," Bradney said slowly. "I am not a business man in any sense. I was convicted by the university authorities of stealing the money entrusted to me to build a laboratory which cost a quarter million dollars. Not all of it, naturally. I think I was supposed to have made away with something like seventy thousand dollars. The anonymous donor of a hundred thousand dollars whose gift had started the thing had expressed a wish that I should have absolute control. It was given to me. A contractor showed me how, by using inferior materials, I could make a commission—that's his term for robbery, not mine—of twenty-five thousand. I should have exposed him then and there to the president, but he begged for a chance, and it was at a period of my life when I was drunk with the joy of my opportunities. His offer was soon forgotten." Fleming Bradney made a gesture almost of despair. "Somewhere got at my papers and altered figures and estimates until even the faculty which wanted to believe in me, believed me guilty. I would not explain. I had the hot anger that innocence feels when it is accused of treachery to its ideals. It was kept out of the papers for the sake of the university, but I was done with. Naturally I fought, enlisted friends, and even lawyers, but I had no money saved, and it was useless."

"What did Mr. Millman mean by saying the story had never been told in its entirety?" Floyd Malet demanded. He turned to his host. "Is there anything else to it?"
